

Agua Caliente Regional Park

RULES & REGULATIONS

- CAMPFIRES: Must be confined to existing stoves or fire rings. See ranger for current campfire rules.
- PETS: For the protection of wildlife, pets are not permitted.
- WASTE WATER: Please dispose of all waste water in an approved dump station, never on the ground.
- VEGETATION & NATURAL FEATURES: All plants, animals, natural features, and archaeological resources are fully protected and may not be damaged, injured, or removed. Please check with your ranger for firewood — he or she generally has a supply to sell for campfires. Please do not gather it from within the park.
- TREES: Do not tie or hang ropes, wire, or tents to trees. Do not drive nails, screws, or staples into trees.
- GENERATORS: Use of generators is prohibited.
- NOISE: To insure each park guest's pleasure and peace, quiet hours are from 10:00 p.m. to 8:00 a.m. Of course, excessive noise and loud music is discouraged at all times.
- FIREARMS & WEAPONS: Firearms, fireworks, and weapons are not permitted in County Parks.
- YOUTH: All persons under 18 years of age must be accompanied by a legally responsible adult with medical authorization for each child while camping in the park.
- ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES: Alcoholic beverages are permitted providing the alcohol content does not exceed 20%.

NOTE: Camping in the park is contingent upon guests maintaining their immediate camping area in a safe and clean condition and complying with all park rules. Failure to comply will result in a suspension of camping privileges and loss of prepaid fees.

Welcome to Agua Caliente Regional Park

It seems an unlikely spot, but in the desert 111 miles from San Diego is the county's Agua Caliente Regional Park. Best known for its geothermally heated springs, it attracts visitors eager to soak in the soothing mineral waters. But Agua Caliente offers far more than therapeutic pools. There are spectacular vistas that await campers and picnickers alike, and hikers will enjoy miles of trails that meander through the park's canyons and across its hillsides. During the height of its season, September through May, this is one of the county's most popular parks.

A Haven in the Desert

Water in the desert is an irresistible magnet to life. Centuries ago, the Kumeyaay Indians were initially attracted to the springs at what we now call Agua Caliente ("hot water" in Spanish). Spanish explorer Juan Bautista de Anza was the first European to visit the area, in 1775. In more recent times, the springs at Agua Caliente were used by pioneers, soldiers, and prospectors.

The seismic activity that long ago shaped the Tierra Blanca Mountains (and created the spur of the Elsinore fault that runs beneath the park) also enabled water to come to the surface and form the park's natural springs. A wide variety of wildlife is attracted to these springs, including ground squirrels, foxes, coyotes, and bobcats. The relatively abundant water supply also supports lush plant life, such as mesquite, willows, Washingtonia palms, and acacias. Depending on the season's rainfall, wildflowers and succulents can put on a colorful show in early spring.

Facilities

Two naturally fed pools provide different ways of enjoying the park's mineral water: a large outdoor spring-fed spa is a natural 92°, and an indoor spa is heated to 102° and outfitted with Jacuzzi jets. Many of the 140 campsites have full or partial hookups, and spring-fed warm showers are available. A caravan area can accommodate large groups. A small picnic area is perfect for day users. Hiking trails offer the visitor more recreational options in the 910-acre park, which is open from Labor Day to Memorial Day. Nearby Vallecito Regional Park offers a smaller camping alternative to Agua Caliente. Surrounding both County parks is Anza-Borrego Desert State Park, the largest state park in the country. It will provide additional adventures for visitors who come to explore San Diego's marvel-filled desert.
